

Ian Macfarlane

Ian is a business leader focused on commercially-driven technology innovation. Strengths include understanding the full product lifecycle from market need to manufacturing and sales. Industry background is in product development and manufacture for medical diagnostic instruments, laboratory automation and medical research equipment. Experience includes product development, sales, operations and management roles. Ian is currently General Manager R&D at Planet Innovation.

